

CHILDS Expands Technology Banking Team – Hires Scott Rhodes as Managing Director

Atlanta, GA – May 3, 2016 – CHILDS Advisory Partners (“CHILDS”) is pleased to announce that Scott Rhodes has joined the firm as a Managing Director in the Technology Group.

“Scott brings a wealth of experience to CHILDS that will be of tremendous value to our clients,” said Jim Childs, Managing Director and founder. “In addition, his sector expertise in software and information services adds substantial depth to our Technology Team.”

Most recently, Scott spent four years with Equifax Inc., a global information solutions company, leading M&A transactions to support its growth strategy in human capital management, data and advanced analytics, and key industry verticals. While at Equifax, Scott led the acquisition of Veda, a publicly traded information solutions company based in Australia and the largest acquisition in Equifax’s history. Prior to Equifax, Scott was the CEO of Bagster, a private equity-backed company which was sold to Waste Management. Scott also has 12 years of investment banking experience with SunTrust Robinson Humphrey and Bank of America.

“I am excited to have joined such a dynamic, growing team,” Scott said. “CHILDS has an excellent reputation for its deep sector knowledge and superior capabilities. I am excited to grow the Technology team.”

Scott has an MBA with distinction and Beta Gamma Sigma from Kellogg School at Northwestern University and a BA in economics with distinction and Phi Beta Kappa from University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.
